Hudson Valley To Be Setting For 'High Tor'

By DON BLAKE

The palisade region of the Catskill Mountains near the Hudson River Valley in New York, is the setting for the second of this year's major productions of the University Theatre.

Maxwell Anderson's "High Tor" will be presented in the main auditorium Dec. 8-10, under the direction of Harold Obee, assistant professor of speech.

Basically a romantic comedy, the play is sprinkled with bits of farce and fantasy, and employs the use of both prose and blank verse.

Rodgers Stars

Van Dorn (Jim Rodgers) is the master of High Tor, who cannot understand the ways of the people of the valley. He leans heavily on the philosophical advice of John, an old Indian (William McIntire), the last remaining descendant of the tribes who once frequented the region.

Judith (Anne Potoky), a girl from the valley is in love with Van and tries to persuade him to leave his domain atop the mountain.

A. J. Biggs (David Smalley) and Judge Skimmerhorn (George Dunster), representatives of a traprock company, climb the mountain to buy High Tor from Van Dorn.

Ghost Sailors

The plot becomes further involved with the introduction of the ghost crew of a sixteenth century Dutch ship, who haunt Biggs and Skimmerhorn. Van Dorn falls in love with Lise (Elizabeth Roof), one of the ghost characters, who helps him understand Judith's love for him.

A group of bank robbers invade High Tor to escape the law, and add new interest.

The set, designed by John Hepler, technical director of the University Theatre, makes use of a highly realistic steam shovel, and limestone rock formations native to the Hudson River area.

Largest Crew Ever

Technical aspects such as lighting, sound effects, and stage work, upon which much of the action is dependent, are being handled by one of the largest technical crews in recent theater seasons, according to Mr. Obee.

Tickets for "High Tor" are now on sale at the Gate Theatre ticket office, and will also be sold at the door. The ticket office will be open daily from 10:30 a.m. until 12 noon, and from 2 to 4 p.m., according to Harold B. Obee, director of the play.

Car-Truck Mishap Involves 5 Students

Five students received minor injuries Thursday night when the car in which they were riding rammed the rear of a halted tractor-trailer. The accident happened on Route 6, about 25 miles east of Bowling Green.

Treated for cuts and bruises were Sally Gallup, driver of the car, John Kraemer, Marilyn Schaser, Douglas Wallach, and Carol Woodruff.

The students were part of a group of art students who were returning from a visit to the Cleveland Museum of Art.

Miss Gallup said bright lights from an oncoming car prevented her from seeing the truck, which was parked partly off the highway without lights.

Van Wormer Urges All To Pre-Register

Pre-registration for the second semester has begun, announced Glenn I. Van Wormer, registrar, and he urges that all students should take advantage of it.

Seniors should make an appointment with the dean of their college before Dec. 21. Also, seniors enrolled in the College of Liberal Arts should make an appointment with their adviser during this time.

Juniors will meet with their adviser between Dec. 12 and Dec. 21. Sophomores and freshmen will meet with their adviser between Jan. 5 and Jan. 13.

Completed schedule envelopes are to be submitted to the Office of the Registrar during the pre-registration period.

Bus Ad Registration To Begin December 12

Pre-registration procedure for students in the college of Business Administration was announced today by Dean B. L. Pierce.

Each adviser in the college will post, beginning today, appointment sheets indicating times when he will be free for conferences during the registration period, December 12-January 13. It is the responsibility of the student to enter his name on the sheet at a time convenient to him.

The appointment sheets are posted just outside or just inside the departmental offices as follows: accounting 301A, business administration 302A, business education 304PA, economics 302A, and journalism 315A.

After the adviser has approved the schedule the student will turn in his envelope at the Registrar's office.

Juniors only will be processed by the Registrar's Office between December 12 and December 21. Freshmen and sophomores may begin pre-registration January 5. Seniors who will be graduated in June or August this year or in February 1957 will be checked by Dean Pierce until December 21.

Charity Drive Here; Students Urged To Give

Students who will urge all-out support of the current campus chest drive will visit fraternities, sororities, and dormitories tomorrow evening, Marcia Karszewski, chairman of the drive, announced.

A central display and collection booth have been set up in the Well to handle donations from faculty, administration and off-campus students.

The drive is scheduled to run throughout the week, ending Saturday, Dec. 10 at 4 p.m. As the only united, on-campus drive held this year in Bowling Green, this will be the only chance for students to contribute to charities this year according to Stuart R. Givens, coordinator of student activities.

"What This Drive Needs Is U" is the slogan, following up last year's serious theme, "Don't Pass The Buck, Give It." This is the second year the drive is being presented on a serious basis to the students. Formerly it consisted of funny-man contests, carnivals, and girls' football games.

Students in fraternity and sorority houses can give their money to house chairmen. Dormitory students can give to their counselors. Off-campus students and faculty members can make contributions in the Well where a booth has been set up.

Students who will speak in the various housing units are LaVera Johnson, Leon DeBth, Jean Goldinger, Linda Wipior, Bob Huddleston, Paul Harnad, Jack Smith, Georgianna Jensen, Nancy Kinney, Bob Salberg, Shirley Merritt, Sally Steidtmann, Nancy Schultz, and Bob Lauer.

The Campus Chest drive is an annual event here at the University. This year's proceeds from the drive will be donated to the American Cancer Society, the Ohio Society for Crippled Children, United Negro College Fund, Foster Parents Plan, Northwest Ohio Heart Association, World University Service, Japan International Christian University Foundation, the Central Department of the Church World Service, Leonard Wood Memorial for Leprosy, and Athens College.

Gibson Qualifies For Phi Epsilon Kappa Key

William Gibson was presented a scholarship key by the members of Phi Epsilon Kappa, men's health and physical education fraternity Nov. 21.

This marks the first time that any member has qualified for this honor. The key is the national Phi Epsilon Kappa award.

To qualify for this award, a member must have superior scholarship rating, participate actively in other organizations and possess outstanding qualities of citizenship and leadership.

Gibson is a senior, majoring in biology and minoring in health and physical education.

Elections for the Freshman class officers and for the six Key King and Queen finalists will be held tomorrow from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Recreation Hall. There will be no pictures of the freshman nominees displayed during the voting hours, but there will be pictures of the Key King and Queen candidates.

Girl Flirts With Death In Fight Against Shark

Alternate tales of death, beauty, and humor came from the lips of Sally F. Murphy, a Bowling Green State University student from Hawaii, as she described some of the adventures she had experienced in her island home.

She and her family once narrowly escaped death as a high tidal wave leveled the well-populated shore of Maui Island, taking more than 50 lives. Sally recalled that the close brush with death occurred on April Fool's Day, 1946.

Meets Shark

A vicious shark offered her another opportunity to flirt with death. Spear-fishing with a companion, she held a previously-captured fish in her hand, while her partner dived for another catch. Waiting for him to surface, she noticed a large shark directly beneath her. Breathless with fear, she continued to hold the bleeding fish in her hand, while the shark, sensing the blood of the wounded fish, prepared to lunge at her. Only the frantic scream of her fishing mate to throw away the fish awoke Sally to action and allowed her once more to cheat death. "It was a long time before I engaged in spear fishing again," she said.

MISS MURPHY

Defends Islands

Life in the Hawaiian Islands isn't, however, just one escape from death after another. With nostalgic humor, Sally described the movie theatre on her home island of Maui. "The admission is 20 cents," she explained. "The seats are wooden benches; the movies are incredibly old. The theatre measures only about 50 feet from the back to the screen; and there is no roof, which means a full moon obliterates the picture on the screen."

When asked to describe the Hawaiian Islands, Sally told of a land of year-round swimming, frequent earthquakes, beautiful sunsets, friendly people, savory food, casual dress, surfboard riding, and erratic Hawaiian time, where a "half hour either way" is the general rule.

Sally, who moved to Hawaii when she was only a few months old, has spent only one summer at home during her four years at the University.

Future Plans

Her future plans include finishing her education at Bowling Green in June, returning to the islands for the summer, and coming back to Ohio for a career in teaching. To "travel the length and width of the United States and eventually retire in Hawaii" are the long range plans of Sally Murphy.

Four Point Program Used By Dr. Shuck

In an effort to increase the effectiveness of the faculty advisory system and to bring the student closer to his adviser the College of Liberal Arts has been conducting an experimental program which, it is hoped, will lead to improvements in the system.

Dr. Emerson C. Shuck, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, feels that this current experiment is "an attempt to get a closer relationship between students and the adviser by providing a contact at every stage of the student's academic progress."

The program has four points: 1. Students in the College of Liberal Arts now have every registration approved by their own advisers. This includes the freshmen who pre-registered in the summer with the dean; and seniors, who first see advisers and then check with the dean.

2. All changes in class schedule have to be initially approved by the advisers.

3. In order to help a student with his studies, the advisers are now receiving reports of the students' hearing, reading, speech tests, which were formerly kept on file in the college office.

4. Midterm estimates are sent to the adviser to be used in consultations with the students.

Former ROTC Instructor Indicted For Murder

A former Bowling Green ROTC instructor was indicted for murder and assault with intent to rob in connection with one slaying and for armed robbery for a second crime, both committed in New Jersey.

Master sergeant John Denn was a member of the ROTC staff from 1949 until May, 1952, with duties as the administrative non-commissioned officer.

Confesses Killing

According to New Jersey police, Denn confessed to the August 11 killing of 43-year-old John Hornyak in Bordentown, N.J. Denn was also indicted for the Sept. 2 bludgeoning of a proprietor of an army and navy surplus store in Wrightstown, N.J.

Denn is reported to have confessed, giving as reason for the crimes, (he said the murder was unintentional) the need for money to support his wife and four children.

Confession Confirmed

A telephone call to Mount Holly, N.J., Burlington county seat, where the trial will be held, confirmed information concerning the confession to the Wrightstown incident.

Howard Nixon, of the Burlington Prosecutor's office, said that the court will appoint a counsel for Denn, since he does not have sufficient funds himself.

Remembered Locally

In Bowling Green, Denn lived on 9th Street. A neighbor, William Lindermeier, also of 9th Street, who sold Denn his home, stated that he personally had no trouble with Denn, although "a little trouble uptown" occurred shortly before he left.

"Trouble Uptown"

That "trouble uptown" was at Reiter's Hardware Store where Denn was a part-time employee for a while. According to Mrs. H. Reiter, proprietor, Denn was sued by that firm for unpaid bills.

"A big-hearted guy who wanted to get ahead too fast" was the description by Wilbur Bankey, University storekeeper in the Graphic Arts Bldg., who was acquainted with Denn during his term on the ROTC staff.

No present members of the ROTC staff were at Bowling Green when Denn was on that staff, but Col. William Lucas (retired), professor of military science and tactics at the time, said Denn was "not a very good soldier."

Information from the University News Bureau shows that Denn spoke to local civic groups, including the Kiwanis Club, on the value of ROTC training.

One national magazine, "Official Detective," which discussed the case, said Denn took courses at the University to supplement his education. However, the Registrar's office has no record of his having been enrolled in any course in the University.

Drive Benefits All

The Campus Chest Drive began yesterday and will continue this week. The committee has thrown out old methods of soliciting money such as ugly person contests, plaques for 100 per cent donations, carnivals, and other attractions.

University students do not have spare money, but seldom are they called on for a concentrated donation to charity. And this drive, since it encompasses several charities, eliminates half a dozen different charity drives throughout the school year.

Speakers from the committee will attempt to induce donations from the various houses and residence halls during the week. Most of us realize that certain nation-wide functions and charities depend solely on voluntary contributions.

So, when you are asked to give, the committee does not expect $5, $10, or $20 contributions from students. But if each student could manage 50 cents or a dollar, University students would then be donating from $2,000 to $4,000 to what are recognized as important and worthy causes. And self-denial of an article, movie, or 10 cups of coffee could make us feel that our personal contribution is by no means minor.

Ike's Meeting Important

Approximately 2,000 delegates to the Washington, D. C. Conference on Education, convened at the Capitol last week for a four-day conference to discuss American school problems. The meeting, first of its kind in the United States, will climax one of the most intensive studies on education ever undertaken in this country.

The opinion of educators as to the purpose of the meeting is divided in two parts. Many felt the outcome would be a strong appeal for federal support and aid to public schools. Others held the opinion that the main question—What should our schools accomplish?—would head the discussion list. A great milestone would be passed if the leaders could reach a unanimous decision on that question, but it seems unlikely considering the many factors in the discussion. One point the delegates seem to agree on is that the public schools do need help on both counts.

The federal government feels the conference will serve as a guide to determine the aggregate needs of American schools.

In February, President Eisenhower asked Congress to formulate some plan under which the federal government could buy or in some way aid the passage of school bond issues in communities attempting to raise funds for school buildings. Ohio communities in the November elections set the pace by passing a majority of local school bond issues, including the $150 million state-wide tax proposal.

These incidents indicate the government is concerned with the nation's educational problems. The White House conference further proves it is more than just a casual interest.

The results of last week's meeting will provide the federal government with basic information which they will use to evaluate, and eventually, we trust, equalize the country's educational opportunities.

Something's Wrong

What's wrong with the freshmen? Normally, this question is directed to the upperclassmen in connection with a lack of enthusiasm, support, or attendance at campus elections, and activities.

But, Wednesday night, a nominating convention was held at which time freshmen nominated members of their class for class officers and student senators. A few more than 50 freshman students showed up, half of whom were aspiring candidates. Where were the other members of the class to support these persons?

Tomorrow is election day and the freshmen will pick their officers, and all the classes will elect six finalists for Key king and queen. If less than half of the freshman class find time to vote, it will not offer much encouragement to those who are elected to turn the position of class officer from the do-nothing situation it now holds to one of making a stronger, more unified class.

Members of the University's 1955-1956 debating team examine the topic for their next contest. Barbara Eyre holds the letter as Shirley Merritt, Dan Wawrzyniak, coach Ray Yeager, and Deloris Conley peer over her shoulder.

Debaters Are Rated Excellent; Win All Events Entered At Meet

Competing against top colleges and universities in the nation, the University debaters won all the individual events which they entered at the Bradley University tournament at Peoria, Ill., Nov. 18 and 19.

There were 500 contestants and 146 debaters entered in the tournament from schools including the University of Illinois, Notre Dame University, Chicago Loyola University, Michigan State University, Northwestern University, and the University of Oklahoma.

Official Announcements

Measurements will be taken at the University Bookstore, Dec. 6 through 9 for all candidates for graduation and faculty members desiring academic costume for commencement Feb. 3. No cash is needed at the time of the order.

Midterm Grades Show Gain; Needle Catches Staff Reporter

BY BRAD GREENBERG

Reports running around the student body that instructors cracked down harder on midterm grades is not borne out by facts from the Registrar's Office.

Yes, the number of D's and F's did increase, but so did the number of students by some 500. Actually, the per cent of D's and F's given for the first nine weeks this year is smaller than last year.

The per cent of students who received one D or more was 44.5 this year as compared to 45.7 last year. The freshman class did somewhat better than last year's first semester group, but a decided drop is noticed among this year's upperclassmen.

Perhaps the upperclassmen are spending too much time chasing the freshmen, who are using their time for better things than being pursued.

One staff reporter became too conscientious about his assignment last week. Sent to the University Health Service for information concerning campus inoculation treatment, the doctor provided him with the essential information.

Then, with a gleam in her eye, perhaps grasping a moment of revenge for past stories in the paper, she asked him if he had received the shot given to all students. Innocently, he replied, "No."

Out came the needle, up went the sleeve, on went the alcohol, in went the needle, down went the sleeve, and out went the reporter. He had to type the story with one hand.

Hunting season in Ohio opened Nov. 15. Hunting on campus began last Monday with open rushing the course for all fraternity men for the next three weeks.

Freshman men will be staggered with parties, dinners, dates, and the like. And fraternity men will be on their best behavior.

Fraternities should not be selected on appearances alone. A freshman should determine in which group he would best fit, basing his decision on such factors as his ability to offer something to that group, its ability to offer something to him aside from only the social events, and the friendships he will be able to establish with the younger men in the houses, since the seniors will be gone a few weeks after he is activated.

A lost dog strayed into one of the local houses and one of the men called the dog bureau. Inquiring what to do with it. He was asked what the collar tag number was, and spotting some large numbers on the tag, said, "1955."

Jack Smith, sophomore, reading the Toledo paper saw a headline saying "Cat Saves House." It described the noise made by a cat to awaken the owners of a Sandusky house which had caught fire.

Not until the bottom lines of the story did he learn it was his parents' home.

Falcons Win Opener; Tucker Hits For 20

BY JACK SMITH

Although out-classed as far as statistics were concerned, Findlay College almost spoiled Bowling Green's opening basketball game Saturday night. The Falcons won, 84-80, but only after a drive-in by Jim Tucker and two fouls made by John "Bucky" Slesinger.

Findlay was trailing, 47-38, at the half, but made use of every break and was only one point away from tying the game about a quarter of the way through the second half. From then on in it was a nip and tuck game. The Oilers were supposed to be handicapped under the backboards by lack of height. However, it seemed the Falcons was the team that was handicapped.

The Falcon squad had a hard time getting the ball under the basket to make any pivot shots and depended considerably on accuracy from both the foul lane and from set shots.

Tied Four Times

The game was tied four times in the opening six minutes before the Falcons pulled away. Coach Harold Anderson starting his 22 year as a college coach, the last 14 of them being at Bowling Green, used only nine players the entire game.

Point wise Lee Hemmeger and Jim McKenzie of Findlay were tied at 27 points each. For Bowling Green it was Tucker with 20 points, Max Chapman with 16 and John Slesinger and "Boo" Ellis tied at 14 each. Both Tucker and Ellis fouled out.

Bowling Green's starting lineup were all over six feet tall except Tucker, while Findlay's lineup had only one player over the six foot mark.

Wednesday night, the Falcon squad will play host to Western Michigan. Last year Bowling Green lost to the Broncos, 88-76. Western Michigan has played one game this season, against Northwestern.

Frosh Triumph

Dale Herbert's freshman squad rolled over Findlay, 88-42, for its first win. Herbert's starting five alone compiled 61 points. Leading the scoring was Jim McDonald with 17. He was followed by Rex Leach with 14, Bud McCampbell with 14, Frank Wade with 10 and Dick Abele with 6. Herbert used 15 boys in winning. The Frosh play their next game Wednesday night against the Defiance junior varsity.

Hecker Picked On INS All-Ohio Team

Jack Hecker, BG end, has been picked on the first team INS All-Ohio college football team. Second team honors went to Falcon tackle Kenny Russell, and halfback Carlos Jackson.

Hecker has also been picked on first team in the Mid-American Conference. This team is chosen by the MAC coaches.

Four Miami players were picked on the first team by INS. Two members of the Dayton Flyers were chosen, as were two Xavier gridders. One player was named from muskumung and one from Heidelberg, which rounded out the All-Ohio first team.

Russell is teamed with Luke Owens of Kent State on the INS second team. Jackson was named along with Dayton's Bill Smith at halfback.

13 Freshman Teams In Women's Volleyball

Women's volleyball intramurals began the season with an unusual twist. Out of the 28 teams entered, 13 are freshman teams. Both Kohl Hall and Williams Hall have five teams each. The remaining teams are from Shatzel Hall, Prout Hall and sorority houses. There are two leagues, 16 teams playing on Tuesday and Thursday and 12 teams playing on Monday and Wednesday in a "Round Robin Tournament."

These games will be played every week until Jan. 12. The play-off will be Jan. 16-17, with the championship game Jan. 19. The trophy will be given later.

Swimmers Start Timed Practices

For its first all-out competition of the year, Bowling Green's swimming team will compete in an intra-squad meet Dec. 17. The team, which in Coach Samuel Cooper's opinion is one of the finest in several years, is still wide open with rivalry keen in all events and no one is sure of a certain spot. The varsity squad numbers 20, and there are 15 hopefuls on the freshman team. At this stage, however, not much can be determined about freshman prospects.

Practice so far has been confined to conditioning with the emphasis on rugged drills aimed at developing physical fitness. This week the swimmers get down to timed practices for the first time this season.

The Falcon swimmers are aiming especially at their first home opponent, Kenyon College, Jan. 17. Kenyon was undefeated last year, and won the Ohio Conference swim crown.

12 AFROTC Cadets Make Rifle Squad

Twelve AFROTC cadets have been selected for the AFROTC Rifle Squad on the basis of their marksmanship, announced Col. Carl G. Arnold, professor of air science.

These cadets were selected for the team because of the high scores they achieved on the competitive tryouts.

Cooper's Comments

Perry Second In Ohio Voting; Frosh Impress Optimistic Fans

By BILL COOPER

It's quite obvious after seeing Saturday's game with Findlay, that the Falcons need quite a bit of polish. However, you have to realize that this was their first outing, and not too much can be expected until the team has played as a unit for a few games. It can't be argued that Findlay has an aggressive team and should win their share of Mid-Ohio League games. The Oiler's Jim McKenzie could undoubtedly play ball for most any college team, and it is easy to realize how Bevo Francis, former scoring sensation while both he and McKenzie were at Rio Grande College, was able to score so many points.

Football mentor Doyt Perry was picked behind Ed Sherman of Muskegon, as the Ohio College Coach of the Year. Perry finished with just one vote less than Sherman. Miami's Ara Parseghian was next to Perry. The annual poll is conducted by the Columbus Dispatch.

Things just weren't supposed to go right at the Findlay game. Several misfortunes happened which put a little damper on the opening game festivities. The trouble started when one scoreboard went out. Attempting to fix this difficulty, a fuse blew and all the lights went out. When the lights were restored only 10 floor lights were working. Then just before the introduction of the players the microphone went dead. When Dr. Maurice Mandell, filling in as a loudspeaker, introduced the Findlay players, no one appeared. While waiting for them to come up from the locker-room, the mike was restored. The next difficulty came with the introduction of the Falcon starting five. Large hoops covered with paper were made for the starters to break through upon introduction, but the spotlights to be used for this purpose were not working.

End Jack Hecker became the first football player in Bowling Green history to be selected for a post-season game. He was signed to play for the north in the annual Blue-Gray All-Star Football game Dec. 31.

Why the editor of a great newspaper reads The Reader's Digest

"The Reader's Digest publishes controversial and important articles, regardless of the pressures that may prevail. This is a valid reason for the respect with which The Reader's Digest is read by millions like myself, not only in the United States but throughout the free world."

Ogden Reid, President and Editor, New York Herald Tribune, Inc.

In December Reader's Digest don't miss:

CONDENSATION FROM THE $4.50 BOOK: "THE MIRACLE OF LOURDES." The cures at this Catholic shrine—cures of the hopelessly sick and crippled—have stirred controversy for years. Now a Protestant (who lived in this French town, questioned doctors, nurses and patients) verifies facts about Lourdes and its miracles.

MYSTERY OF EASTER ISLAND. On a remote Pacific isle stand giant, stone-age statues—some weighing 30 tons. Who carved them? How did they get there? Story of one of the world's most baffling mysteries.

REDISCOVERING AMERICA. Areal supermarket, Negro major-league ball players, luxury motels, "do-it-yourself" servantless homes—Paul Gallico tells the amazing revolution that greets an American returning to his country after 15 years abroad.
